Research Programmes

Member of the Expert Advisory Group on the Social Sciences and the Humanities of the European Commission, DG Research, since January 2009. Regularly acting as independent expert in the evaluation of research projects submitted following calls for proposals of DG Research of the European Commission.

6th European Community Framework Programme on Research and Development. The project on "Reflexive Governance" is coordinated by the CPDR/UCL (2005-2010). In that framework, I am coordinator of the Fundamental Rights Sub-Network, the aim of which is to develop proposals on the future of the fundamental rights policy of the Union, with a focus on the impact of this policy on the allocation of competences between the Member States and the Union and on the use of new modes of governance to improve the coordination between the Member States. On the research hypothesis and the participants, see <http://cridho.uclouvain.be>

5th European Community Framework Programme on Research and Development (2002-2005): direction of a seminar on the future of the open method of coordination in employment and social policies, which led to the publication of Social Rights and Market Forces, which I have co-edited with prof. S. Deakin (CBR, Cambridge) (see bibliography). On the research hypothesis and the participants, see <http://cridho.uclouvain.be>

I.A.P. (Inter-University Attraction Pole) 2007-2011 of the Centre de philosophie du droit (CPDR – UCL). As director of the legal research in the CPDR, I am coordinating the research on Foreign direct investment and human development, jointly conducted by the CPDR and LICOS (Centre for the Study of Transition Economies) and the Institute of International Law, both from the KULeuven.

I.A.P. (Inter-University Attraction Pole) 2002-2007 of the Centre de philosophie du droit (CPDR – UCL). As director of the legal research in the CPDR, I conduct a number of researches, including doctoral theses, which seek to analyze the relationship of fundamental rights to economic freedoms exercised in market relationships. The themes are minority rights, genetic privacy, globalization and human rights, and at a more theoretical level, the influence of economic paradigms on the development of legal thought. In this latter respect, I am particularly interested in the emergence of the Welfare State in the United States, especially during the Locher era (1890-1940), a theme on which I am preparing a book.

F.S.R. 2000-2002, on “Markets and Discrimination”. This has been an interdisciplinary research (Law, Economics, Social Psychology) which was partly built around the book then in preparation : Discriminations et marché du travail. Liberté et égalité dans les rapports d’emploi (P.I.E. Peter Lang, 2001). Two doctoral theses are currently being completed in this context.

I.A.P. (Inter-University Attraction Pole) 1997-2002 of the Centre de philosophie du droit (CPDR). In this research programme, I have conducted a seminar of lawyers and criminologists on the reform of the penitentiary and the fundamental rights of detainees. A volume resulted from the research, which adopts a comparative approach to the task of reforming the prison system (United States, Canada, United Kingdom, France, Belgium, the Netherlands) and the theoretical questions raised by the “humanization” of that system and the implementation of prisoners’ rights (O. De Schutter and D.Kaminski (dir.), L’institution du droit pénitentiaire, L.G.D.J., Paris, 2002). My own contribution was on the role of the United States federal judiciary in the reform of the penitentiary.

International research programme of Paris X-Nanterre, on an institutional analysis of the labor markets in Europe, financed by the French Centre national de la recherche scientifique (2000-2002): “Les politiques du marché du travail en Europe: les cadrages juridiques et économiques du jugement des compétences et leur rapport au chômage” (law and economics approach to discrimination on the labor market).

Participation in a number of research programmes of the International Institute of Human Rights in Strasbourg (France).

Joint Seminar of the CPDR and the Forward Studies Unit of the European Commission, “Governance in the European Union” (1996-1999), led to the publication of O. De Schutter, N. Lebessis, and J. Paterson (eds.), Governance in the European Union, OOEPEC, Luxemburg, 2001, 318 pages (two languages : French and English) as well as to the adoption of the White Paper on European Governance (COM(2001)428 final, 25.7.2001).
